If you have:

A high temperature

A new continuous cough

A loss or change to your sense of taste and smell

You MUST go home, self-isolate, call 119 to book a test and follow advice given by the NHS Test and Trace when you receive the results

Workers who need to self-isolate are entitled to statutory sick pay

Don’t give coronavirus a chance

You MUST self isolate if:

- You have symptoms
- You have tested positive
- You live with someone who has symptoms or has tested positive
- You have been advised to by NHS Test and Trace

Play your part and stop the virus spreading

You could be sharing more than just a lift on the way to work

Coronavirus spreads easily in small enclosed spaces

It could be better to travel alone than risk the lift to work

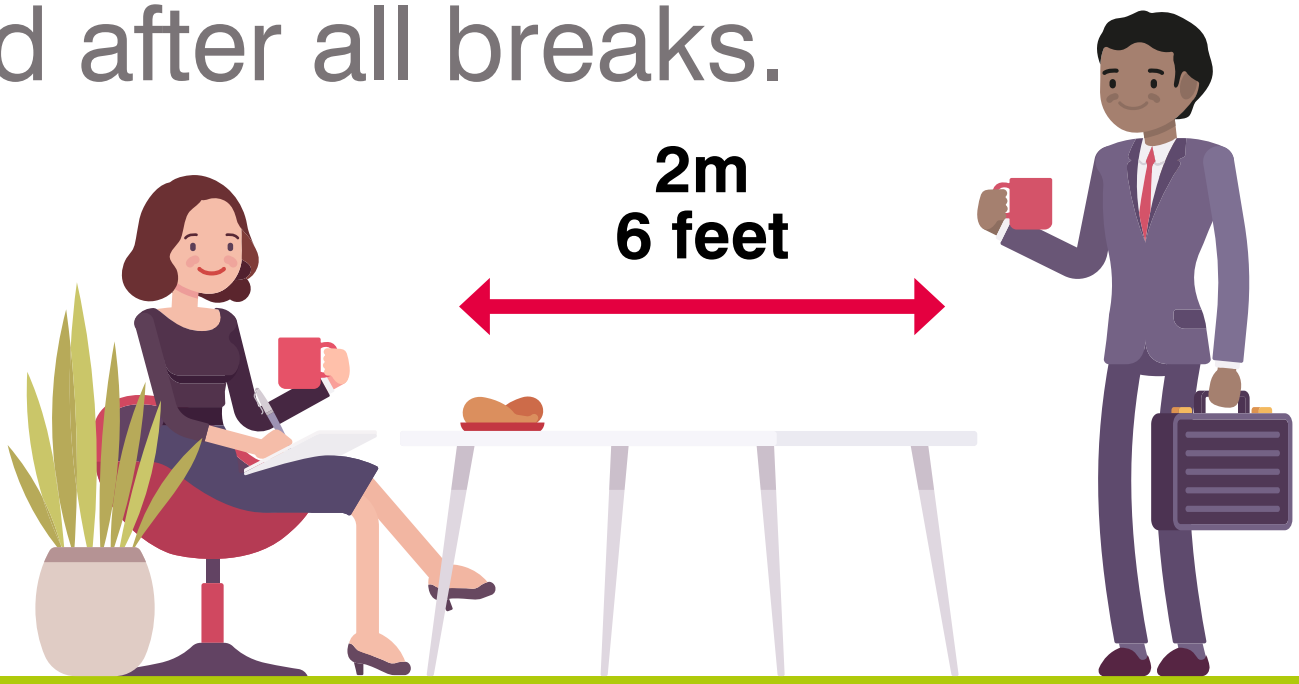
Please continue to stay two metres apart during breaks.

Wash your hands before and after all breaks.



Coronavirus is never on a break and doesn't care if you are

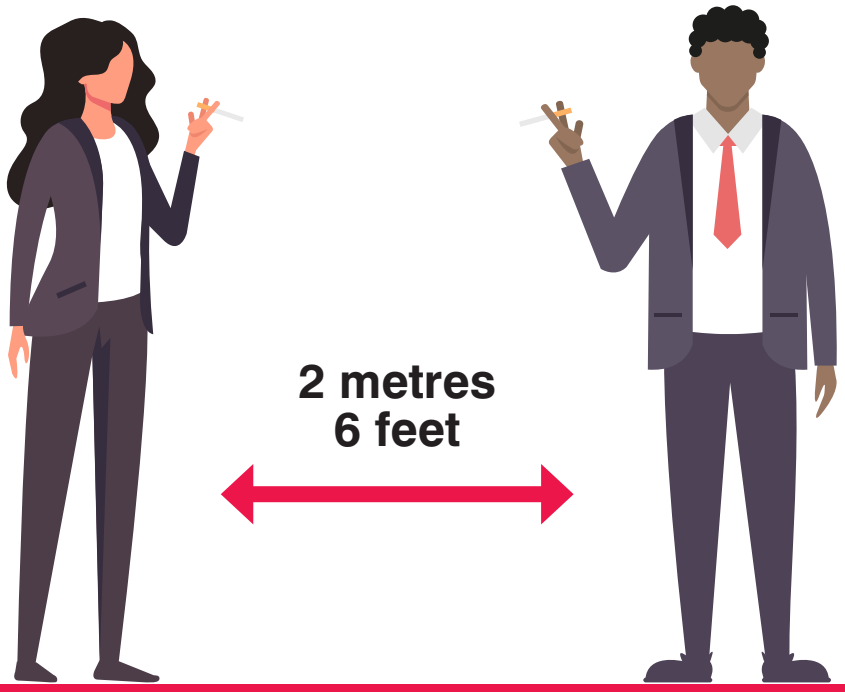
Smoking areas are high risk for spreading coronavirus

Stay two metres apart on cigarette breaks



Coronavirus is never on a break and doesn't care if you are

More and more people are giving up smoking since the outbreak of coronavirus. Now could be an excellent time to quit.
